From the Gazette of the United States.

TOM PAINE,

Invited to this country by his Right Worthy and affectionate Friend,

T. JEFFERSON.

No. III.

HAVING compared the ſentiments of theſe affectionate friends as to the Waſhington adminiſtration generally, we ſhall now proceed to extract a few paſſages from Paine's letter relative to general Waſhington's private and military character. Should theſe be found perfectly to accord with the ſlanders of the Proſpect before Us, which was publiſhed under Jefferſon's patronage, and which drew liberal ſums as well from the purſe of the people as from that of Mr. Jefferſon; with thoſe of the National Gazette, the editor of which was foſtered in the boſom of Mr. Jefferſon, and paid out of the public treaſury; with thoſe of the Aurora for the encouragement and ſupport of which Mr. Jefferſon ſet on foot a private ſubſcription, and gave for his own part 16 dollars; and with thoſe of the latter ſigned Jaſper Dwight, the author of which boaſts of having been hired by Mr. Jefferſon and his friends to remain in Philadelphia, becauſe it was thought he could render more eſſential ſervice to the cauſe here than in the interior, it will be rational to conclude that Mr. Jefferſon's high eſteem and affectiona e atta hment were purchaſed by ſervices ſo grateful to his ambition and his envy. We proceed then with Paine's letter.

"I know that had it not been for the aid received from France in men, money and ſhips, that your cold and unmilitary conduct would, in all probability, have loſt America. You ſlept away your time in the field till the finances of the country were completely exhauſted, and you have but little ſhare in the glory of the final event. It is time, ſir, to ſpeak the undiſguiſed language of hiſtorical truth."

The ſentiments here expreſſed are ſo exactly thoſe which for a long time pervaded the Aurora, and thoſe which filled the letter of Jaſper Dwight, that there can be no neceſſity for tracing the ſimilitude. As large extracts from that letter, and from Jefferſon's Proſpect before Us, have been lately publiſhed in this Gazette, it is preſumed that the purport of them, is freſh in the recollection of our readers, and conſequently that there can be no neceſſity for ſwelling this article by a repetition of them. We return then to Paine's letter.

"I was at no loſs to underſtand Mr. Waſhington and his new ſangled faction, and that their policy was to leave me to fall in France. They were ruſhing as faſt as they could venture without awakening the jealouſy of America, into all the vices and corruptions of the Britiſh government."

"You may judge whether this was very offenſive to Mr. Jefferſon, by comparing it with his own letter to Mazzei, in which you will find the following expreſſion's upon the ſame ſubject.

"Inſtead of that noble love of liberty, and that republican government, which carried us through the dangers of war, an Anglo Monarchico Ariſtocratic party has riſen. Their avowed object is to impoſe on us the ſubſtance as they have already given us the form of the Britiſh government. We have againſt us (republicans) the EXECUTIVE POWER, the judiciary power, &c.

Paine again.

"Being once more abroad in the world, I began to find that I was not the only one who had conceived an unfavorable opinion of Mr. Waſhington. It was evident that his character was on the decline, as well among Americans as among foreigners of different nations. From being the chief of a government, he had made himſelf the chief of a party; and his integrity was queſtioned, for his politics had a doubtful appearance."

Page 26.

No, my affectionate friend, ſays Jefferſon, you are not the only one who perceived that Mr. Waſhington had made himſelf the chief of a party, an Anglo Monarchico Ariſtocratic party. I ſhould give you a fever if I ſhould name the apoſtates who have embraced theſe hereſies, men who were Solomons in council and Sampſons in combat, but whoſe hair has been cut off by the whore of England.*

* See the letter to Muzzei.

Paine continues:

"For your own ſake as well as for that of America, I was both ſurprized and concerned at the appointment of Governeur Morris to be miniſter to France. His conduct has proved that the opinion I had formed of that appointment was well f unded. I wrote that opinion to Mr. JEFFERSON." [Page 33.]

To Mr. JEFFERSON!—No doubt; when went there by a time at which Mr. Jefferſon's ear or heart was cloſed againſt any one who had a tale of calumny to tell of Waſhington!—This is the mode in which Paine won the high eſteem and affectionate attachment of the virtuous Jefferſon—this is the witchcraft he has uſed.

But let us haſten through theſe diſguſting extracts.

"Errors or caprices of the temper can be pardoned and forgotten; but a cold, deliberate crime of the heart, ſuch as Mr. Waſhington is capable of acting, is not to be waſhed away." [Page 39

"The Waſhington adminiſtration having waded though the ſlough of negociation, and while it amuſed France with profeſſions of friendſhip, contrived to injure her, immediately throws off the hypocrite and aſſumes the ſwaggering air of a bravado. The party papers of that imbecile adminiſtration were on this occaſion filled with paragraphs about ſovereignty. A poltroon may boaſt of his ſovereign right to let another kick him, and this is the only kind of ſovereignty ſhewn in the treaty with England."

How admirably well does the forepart of this paragraph correſpond with that in the letter to Mazzei, where it is ſaid, "It ſuffices that we arreſt the progreſs of that ſyſtem of ingratitude and injuſtice towards France from which they [the anglo-monarchio-ariſtocratic party] would ſeduce us to bring us under Britiſh influence." Would it not be pronounced upon the bare reading of theſe two paſſages, that the writers are well fitted for affectionate friends?

"The injury which Mr. Waſhington's adminiſtration has done to the character as well as to the commerce of America, is too great to be repaired by him." [Page 49.

"In what a fraudulent light muſt Mr. Waſhington's character appear in the world when his declarations and his conduct are compared together." [Page 49.

"It is laughable to hear Mr. Waſhton talk of his ſympathetic feelings, who has always been remarked, even among his friends, for not having any."

"The ſucceſsful ſkirmiſhes at the cloſe of the campaign of 1776 (matters that would ſcarcely be noticed in a better ſtate of things) make the brilliant exploits of gen. Waſhington's ſeven years campaign. No wonder we ſee ſo much puſillanimity in the preſident when we ſee ſo little enterprize in the general. [Page 57.

"As to you, ſir, treacherous in private friendſhip, and hypocrite in public life, the world will be puzzled to decide whether you are an apoſtate or an impoſtor; whether you have abandoned good principles or whether you ever had any."

At the peruſal of this paſſage we can almoſt ſee the hands of our pious preſident raiſed to heaven in the act of uttering that ſincere prayer that the writer may live long to continue his uſeful labors. If there be any vice, if there be any vileneſs of which Waſhington has notbee naccuſed in the courſe of theſe extracts it may be ſought and fonnd in the letter to Mazzei, "the Proſpect before Us," the National Gazette, or ſome other of Mr. Jefferſon's publications. There are indeed, in this letter of Paine, other charges againſt the moral character of general Waſhington equally groſs with thoſe extracted. To embrace them all would be to republiſh the whole letter. In the 41ſt and 51ſt page the general is directly accuſed of lying. Enough, we flatter ourſelves, has been extracted to ſhew the coincidence of Paine's and Jefferſon's views and to account for their mutually high eſteem and affectionate attachment.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 15.

If it be aſked, what is the eſſential principles of good government? Mr. Jefferſon will anſwer "Equal and exact juſtice to all men, of whatever politics or religion." But what is the Jefferſonian comment on this text? Let the numerous removals of Federaliſm from office ſolely becauſe they were Federaliſt, anſwer! Let the conduct of the famous committee of Congreſs, determine! In the inveſtigating report of that committee. Mr. Pickering is charged as a public defaulter! Why, becauſe he expended the ſurplus of one appropriation to make good a deficiency in a nother, when at the ſame time the ſame committee are compelled, againſt the grain to confeſs, that he had "EXPENDED all THE PUBLIC MONEY TO PUBLIC PURPOSES!"—Yet this ſame Committee, with the utmoſt cool blood can paſs over without a comment, and with barely ſtating, "that a ſuit not yet decided, has been inſtituted againſt Mr. Randolph, formerly Secretary of State, for a balance unaccounted for by him." Yet this balance is no leſs than FIFTY ONE THOUSAND DOLLARS; and has been due five years! But ſtart not reader;—this perſecution on the one hand and forbearance on the other, are eaſily accounted for—Mr. Pickering is a Federaliſt, and Mr. Randolph, a leader of the "Jefferſonian ſect, in the Ancient Dominion!! Mark that. So much for "equal and exact juſtice to all men." (Boſton Cent.)

Letters from France, by the ſhip Benjamin Frank in lately arrived from Havre-de-Grace, mention that the drafts iſſued by Mr. Pichon, laſt ſpring, to the amount of 150,000 dollars, have been duly paid; and thoſe ſame letters expreſs a confidence that the ſubſequent ones will likewiſe meet with a punctual payment. It is further ſaid that the French government have provided a large fund in the United States to be appropriated to their expences, until full confidence in bills is reſtored and to prevent further drafts. (Fed. Gaz.

We are happy in hearing of the progress made in building of New-Jersey college. Mr. La Trobe, the architect, is now at Princeton, superintending the construction of the roof of this edifice—the building, it seems, is to be covered with sheet iron, which, it is supposed, will at once prove a safe and durable roof. At the next session, a large addition will be made to the number of the students. The discipline of the college will in future be more strict, and a more exact and rigid attention than ever will be paid to the moral and religious principles of the youth who may be sent to this institution for their education. Com. Adv.

It is a fact, highly honorable to the characters of the American masters of vessels, that out of fifteen or twenty laying in the port of Havre-de-Grace, it was with extreme difficulty that ONE could be persuaded to accept TOM PAINE on any terms, as a passenger. We have authority to say that three belonging to this port, rejected him, in terms of disgust and indignation. Capt. Auld who arrived on Sunday, informs us, that he had experienced a refusal from several others, and believes, that he had at last succeeded with the ship London Packet, which was to sail for Baltimore, a few days after the Caroline. No wonder that our pious President tho't it expedient to dispatch a frigate for the accommodation of this loathsome reptile!

From Bordeaux Papers.

The American ship Brothers, captain Moses Homstets, from Havnnna, loaded with coffee, sugar, and hides, bound to Bordeaux, was drove ashore on the coast of Montmusson, vessel and cargo lost, captain and crew saved. She was insured to the amount of 27,000 francs at Bordeaux.

An American ship called the Philadelphia, of about 400 tons, bound to Antwerp with a cargo of sugars, coffee, indigo, tea, linens and cotton, piloted by a Dutch pilot which she got at Flushing, was run ashore on one of the back of the Scheldt. This event has determined the merchants to apply to the Government for French pilots, to be stationed at the mouth of the Scheldt, for the more safe navigation of the river in future.

THE ODDS,

Between Former, and the Present Times.

Under the administration of Washington and Adams, the music of the axe, the anvil and the hammer; and the busy hum of trucks, carts and carriages, delighted the ear and gladdened the heart of every one who rejoiced in the increased prosperity of the industrious mechanic and enterprizing merchant; and in the growing wealth and greatness of our country. But times have changed; a different order of men has succeeded; and now the axe and the anvil grow rusty for want of use, and the hammer hangs on the peg; and the horses of the laboriors prosecutors of the "carrying trade," are either standing idle in the streets, or eating their heads off in the stable. No matter, says the democrats, for Mr. Jefferson, in his famous notes on Virginia, has declared that our "work shops ought to be in Europe;" and our skilful and laborious "artizans, mechanics and manufacturers sent into the country to till the soil," mechanics truckmen, manufacturers! What think ye?

To ALBERT GALLATIN, Esq.
Secretary of the Treasury.

SIR,

A statement appeared in the Gazette of the United States, of the 16th of September, respecting a sale said to have been made by you of the bank stock belonging to the public, which if correct, certainly demands some explanation. As the statement was not particularly addressed to yourself, and you possibly may not have seen it, we would wish to avoid making too hasty conclusions from your silence. It is therein said, that you sold the stock for 88,800 dollars less than it would have brought in the market, and allowed the purchaser to receive two dividends, that would no doubt amount to 79,920 dollars, before he is to make the first payment, in addition to which you agreed to receive the payments, in bills on Holland, at a rate of exchange two per cent above par; which would make an additional item of 25,752 dollars, and the gross amount to be carried to profit and loss one hundred and ninety four thousand four hundred and seventy two dollars. Further, that in doing this you disposed of an annuity of 9 per cent. per annum, to discharge one for which the United States were paying no more than at the rate of 5 per cent.

This account on the face of it appears very extraordinary, and as few men have appeared to be more in favor of publicity in all the measures of government, and the responsibility of public servants than yourself, it is not supposed that you will be offended at free and open inquiry.

It is therefore expected that you will inform the public why you made such enormous sacrifices as appear by every one of the items, even admitting there was a necessity for the sale; and it that necessity did exist, it was occasioned by the repeal of the internal taxes, a measure adopted by the party, with a view of gaining popularity. But the question is whether by taking the trouble and adopting proper measures, you might not have made more of the property; and if you are not therefore cheargeable with mismanagement, and neglect of duty to say best the of it. AN OBSERVER.

Gazette of United States.

Mr. Jefferson's letters to Callender published in the last Gazette, arrest the attention of men of all parties, without distinction. Even some of the warmest friends of Mr. Jefferson proclaim their disapprobation by a silence which is seldom observed on the arrogant visage of democracy. But this is no ways astonishing, for to vent their spleen against Callender or to rail against his writings would be now to offer an unpardonable insult both to the taste and judgment of their President. To attempt to vindicate the contents of the letters, would be an attack upon the principles of our constitution, of which the maddest demagogue is sensible, although it escaped the notice of the Monticellian sage. Thus they are reduced to a dilemma which will require more ingenuity to surmount than even the Genevan treasurer is possessed of. All the combined forces of the Clintons, the Langdonites, the Gerrites, and the Loganites, with their subordinate satellites, will be unable to resist the effect which the last Recorder has produced upon the minds of Americans—a Recorder which will be remembered as long as there is candour to acknowledge the wide difference between the open and virtuous conduct of Washington, and the secret and clandestine policy of Mr. Jefferson; a Recorder, which will serve as a lasting epitaph of the integrity of the former, but as a monument of disgrace to the latter; a Recorder to record the infamy of a transaction, which the tears of the weeping willows of Monticello will not wash away, until the Recording Angel shall blot out the foulest crimes which ever defiled society.

[Virg. Gaz.]

While the government of the United States was in the hands of federal characters, the democratic leaders loudly contended for the right of uttering all manner of wilful slander, with intent to defame, without being in any measure responsible for the same. Hence the clamors against a law, whose only intent was to repress false, wilful and malicious slander. But now the tables are turned—The liberty of the press, which they asserted while it suited their purposes, becomes licentiousness in the hands of their oppnents. They set an example of false and illiberal abuse, which it is hoped will never be followed—free enquiry and remark is allowable, but low calumny can never serve a cause with persons of enlightened and virtuous minds. Whenever our President, or any other person in authority, has been guilty of misconduct, let him be exposed—but that abuse which aims at the destruction of a fair private character—which is false or springs from resentment, can never be of service to any cause with considerate and worthy characters. (Com. Adv.)

Valentine Kittering, in a letter addressed to the Speaker of the Senate of the State of Pennsylvania, has communicated an effectual cure for the bite of a mad dog, either in man or beast. The letter was laid before the legislature, and a committee appointed to report thereon. The committee conferred with the said Kittering, who stated, that he uses the herb called Red Chick Weed, when, ripe, or in full bloom, gathers, and dries in the shade, reduces it to powder, and gives a small table spoonful at one time, to a grown person, in beer or water, in weight one drachm and one scruple: for a child an equal dose, but given at three different times, or it may be eaten on bread, with butter, honey, molasses, as the person chuses; for a beast, a large spoonful; if by weight, two drachms and one scruple. When used green for a beast cut the herb fine and mix it with bran, &c. When given to swine, mix the powderd herb with meal of any kind, dose as above, in little balls. He affirms that he has given it to persons many weeks after they were bitten, and never knew it to fail; and never gives more than a single dose, except to children as above. He further says that it is an excellent cure for cuts and wounds on the human body. When green, mash it, and drop of the juice into the wound, and bind the herb, so mashed, on. The proper time to sow the seed is about the beginning of April, it should be sown then.

The Executors of the late Gen. Geo. Waſhington, offer for ſale, the following

TRACTS OF LAND, viz.

A tract in Loudoun county on Difficult Run, containing 300 acres. The ſoil well adapted for farming and a conſiderable proportion of it might eaſily de improved into meadow. There is a valuable mill-ſeat on the premiſes. It lies on the great road from the City of Waſhington, Alexandria and George Town to Leeſburgh and Wincheſter, nineteen miles from Alexandria, leſs from the City and George Town and not more than three from the Great Falls of Potomac.

One tract containing 2,481 acres lying in the counties of Loudoun and Fauquier, called Aſhby's Bent. The ſoil is that which is ſaid to be moſt favorable to Plaſter of Paris, well watered by ſeveral never failing ſtreams iſſuing from the mountain—part of this land is cleared and tenanted for lives.

One tract lying part in each of the above counties, containing 885 acres. Chatten's run paſſes through this tract and tives ſeveral valuable mill-ſeats. The ſoil is ſimilar to the above tract and equally favorable to Plaſter of Paris.

A tract on the South Fork of Bullſkin, containing 1600 acres—One alſo, Head of Evans's Mill, containing 453 acres, and one on Wormley's line, containing 183 acres. Theſe ſeveral tracts are in Jefferſon (late Berkeley county)—the ſoil very ſimilar in quality, and particularly adapted to the culture of Tobacco, Hemp, Wheat and Indian Corn, ſituated twelve miles from Harper's Ferry.

One tract containing 571 acres in Frederick county, this land is in the vicinity of the laſt mentioned tracts and equally valuable.

One tract in Hampſhire county containing 240 acres—this tract, tho' ſmall is extremely valuable. It lies on Potomac river, about 12 miles above the town of Bath (or Warm Springs) and is in the ſhape of a horſe-ſhoe, the river running almoſt round it; two hundred acres of it are rich low grounds, with a great abundance of the largeſt Walnut and other trees, which with the produce of the ſoil, might (by means of the improved navigation of the Potomac) be brought to a ſhipping port with more eaſe and at a ſmaller expenſe, than that which is tranſported only 30 miles by land.

One third part of 1119 acres on Nanſemond county near Suffolk, lying on the road from Suffolk to Norfolk and in Nanſemond river—this land is conſidered extremely valuable by thoſe who are acquainted with it.

One tract in Charles county, Maryland, containing 600 acres—it is very level and lies near the river Potomac.

One tract in Montgomery county, Maryland, containing 519 acres—This land lies about 30 miles above the City of Waſhington, not far from Kettoctan and is good farming land.

One tract in Pennſylvania, containing 234 acres—This land affords an exceeding good ſtand on Braddock's road from Fort Cumberland to Pittſburg, and a large quantity of natural meadow fit for the ſcythe. It is diſtinguiſhed by the appellation of the Great Meadows, where the firſt action with the French, in the year 1754, was fought.

One other tract on the Mohawk river, State of New-York, containing 1000 acres.

In North Weſt Territory. Three tracts lying on Little Miami, containing 3051 acres.

In Kentucky. On Rough Creek, one tract containing 3000 acres; ditto adjoining 2000 acres. Indiſputable titles can be given for the above lands.

Lots in the City of Waſhington. Two improved lots near the Capitol, ſquare 634. The improvements are, on each an elegant three ſtory brick houſe.

Four other unimproved lots on the Eaſtern Branch, No. 5, 12, 13 and 14, in ſquare 667. Theſe lots are advantageouſly ſituated on the water.

WINCHESTER.

One lot in Town of half an acre, adjoining Doctor Makay's, encloſed with a good poſt and rail fence, and another in the commons of about ſix acres.

Bath, or Warm Springs.

Two well ſituated lots, on one of them is a ſmall building large enough to accommodate one family.
